Inside the PDF form there is a button called "Submit" which when clicked calls a function "submit". The problem is that I need to automatically pass in a cookie (current_user) for the function "submit" when the "Submit" button is clicked. I'm new to JQuery but I believe I need to call the function "submit" inside of a.click function which gets called when the "Submit" button is clicked. I tried a few things but I'm not getting the expected result. Any help would be greatly appreciated. A: I think that you can create a custom code for that. Here is a link about Custom Code : The code that I would write would be: $(document).ready(function(){ var payment={param1:'param1 value',param2:'param2 value'} $('#payment-details').attr('action','com_myccr/myccr/newccr/index.php?option=com_myccr&task=newccr&cid[]='); $
