What's new in My Very Own Light:

(children's drama) The Princess, the Stray Cat, and Matters of the Heart () is a children's fairy tale drama directed and choreographed by Nonna Rodia and starring Melita Karanfilova and Petr Planko in 1984. It is based on the fairy tale of the same name by Anton Chekhov, with an oriental touch. Russian director Rodia created and starred in many video/film fairy tales and was awarded the Lenin Prize for film in 2004. It can be also considered an early example of a Chekhovian toy story. Plot Lovely Princess Yekaterina Petrovna (her name is Katya in the story, which is "A princess whose name is Katerina" in the original) lives in ancient Persia (Karun in the original). One day, the she-cat, Bastet, wags her tail from under a tree, and says "Puss!" to her. The "puss" is a stray cat looking for a home. Everyone in the village stutters when they say, "Kommen," but Katya, well educated, stutters less. Unlike her people, Katya is not frightened by the cat's gaze, and does not run away. She is astonished when Bastet wags her tail again, and says "Prosvet" ("Come"), though she cannot speak. Katya behaves coolly, caresses Bastet on the head, and even plays with the cat. She takes Bastet into her home, and keeps a close watch on her. One night, when she is sleeping, the cat crawls to her side and starts whispering: "Little Princess, what is it in you that is so kind that I am so jealous of you? You have a good head on your shoulders, you are wise, but even though you are the daughter of a great lord, you would not chase the hare on the hills, not even out of kindness. Why do I walk by your side and all the others fade away? Two nights ago I came here, and for the first time in my life, felt the warmth of a human being, of a tenderheart that yearns to see you happy and has an eye for everything good. If we had only met later, then we could have found a kingdom, and lived in it together. You would have been happy, then, Little Princess, you would have had happy eyes and a happy smile. Look at the moon, will

VR2: Vacate 2 Rooms is VR dungeon crawler game where you play the role of the new owner of a normal, but beautiful Japanese apartment and is challenged by the old tenants to vacate the second floor of the building and leave the apartment in a good condition. You will be given a key to that door and you can acquire rooms on the second floor. Make your way through the apartments from the first floor in order to reach the street and leave the building in the best possible condition. About the music: The music in this game is my original idea and one of my old favorite projects of the last years. I have developed it into a fully orchestral composition. The music is built up with many different ideas and influences from multiple composers including a low-tech, real-world musician like me. I first thought about creating an ambient-rock piece with strong rhythms, probably in the genre of ambient rock. But when I finished this piece, I realized it has a lot more to offer and incorporated so many different styles and elements from the contemporary electronic music that I could hardly recognize this piece as ambient rock anymore. I also incorporated a lot of elements from a classical musical style and classical EDM style. By combining all this styles in one composition, I created an ambient-rock song with a lot of depth and a clear structure. The Album: In this project, I started with an idea of creating a more simple album for myself. But when I created the tracklist, I realized it was not as simple as I thought. Because of this, I realized that it was necessary to create a large-scale orchestral composition that I could tour around. Also, I knew I would need a clear structure and an organic flow in the composition. When I started mixing the pieces together, I could not even find a name for this piece yet. This was how I came up with the idea of calling this project "I Came to Vacate," meaning "I want to Vacate". Then, I started looking for a composer to collaborate with and contacted other composers via the internet. I could not find a composer that fitted my needs and therefore I picked a composer that was a real musical friend and collaborator. So I contacted him and asked him if he wanted to collaborate on this project with me. Thus we did collaborate on the composition and also created a new layer in the composition. About me: I am hOSHI, but it is not spelled with an
