Proceedings of the International Conference on Wear and Tribology: From Science to Industry, (ed. Perth: Elsevier).Hypertension, morbidity and mortality in African-Americans. Risk factors and pathogenesis. Hypertension is both a major problem and a significant public health concern in black Americans. Risk factors for hypertension include high blood pressure in the blood, structural and functional changes in the heart, kidney, and other organs, obesity, low levels of physical activity, and certain lifestyle or dietary factors. Tobacco, alcohol, and a high-fat diet also contribute to high blood pressure. In addition, genetic factors also influence blood pressure levels in black Americans. Recent genetic studies have demonstrated the existence of a genetic component in the development of hypertension, but these findings need to be substantiated by replication in other populations./* * Copyright 2017 Mikhail Shiryayev * * Licensed under the Apache License, Version 2.0 (the "License"); * you may not use this file except in compliance with the License. * You may obtain a copy of the License at * * * * Unless required by applicable law or agreed to in writing, software * distributed under the License is distributed on an "AS IS" BASIS, * WITHOUT WARRANTIES OR CONDITIONS OF ANY KIND, either express or implied. * See the License for the specific language governing permissions and * limitations under the License. * * * Product : Rapid SCADA * Module : ScadaDataFactoryCommon * Summary : Basic class that holds a pointer to the config object * * Author : Mikhail Shiryayev * Created : 2017 * Modified : 2017 */ using System; using System.Collections.Generic; using System.Linq; using System.Text; namespace Scada.Data { /// /// Basic class that holds a pointer to the config object /// public class ScadaDataFactoryCommon
